THE RAGO ESTATE

Numerous Wills Entered For Probate in The County Court

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 20 — Emelia Kraft, Bristol township, who left a personal estate of $300 and real estate valued at $200, bequeathed all her jewelry to a daughter, Gertrude C. Yost, Bristol, R. D. 2, who was also named the executrix.

The residue of the estate will be shared by a daughter, who lives at 4815 North Howard street, Philadelphia, and a son, Frank Kraft, Jr., 5145 Fairhill street, Philadelphia.

With the exception of a bequest of $1 to a daughter, Christina Petti, the real estate of Michele Rago, Bristol, will be divided into two major shares with Anna R. Liberatore inheriting one portion and the remaining portion will be inherited by Fannie R. Pasciulla, Rosa R. Iannucci, and Maria Pietrina and Eleanor Rago. Anna R. A New Hope priest, the Rev. John Fleming, was bequeathed $100 for the purpose of saying masses for the repose of the soul of Patrick F. Kelly and his deceased wife, of New Hope, according to the testator's will probated in the Register of Wills' office, here.

The testator, who left a personal estate of $3300 and real estate valued at $2500, directed that Father Fleming or his successor of St. Martin's Catholic Church, New Hope, should say the masses.

Two sons, William Vincent and Charles E. Kelly, were each given $500, and a daughter, Frances Markey, was bequeathed the residue.

Petrillo Dies in Electric Chair

Bellefonte, Oct. 20—Herman Petrillo, suave ringleader of the notorious Philadelphia "murder-for-insurance" ring, died early today in the electric chair, pleading for mercy and maintaining his innocence.

"Gentlemen, give me a chance to prove my innocence," he cried to the witnesses as he was placed in the chair.

"You wouldn't want to witness the death of an innocent man," said the man who was accused by the State of having participated in more than a score of cold-blooded murders. "I want to see the Governor."

The lethal shock of 2,000 volts struck him as he continued to sob for mercy. Over the hum of the electric current could be heard the voice of Willie Jones, young Pittsburgh negro who was slated to accompany Petrillo to the chair but was respited Saturday by Gov. Arthur H. James. From a nearby cell in "death row," in a loud, clear voice, he sang "Holy, Holy, Holy, There's Rest For The Weary."

Nazis Believe U. S. Over-Age Destroyer Sunk

Berlin, Oct. 20—German authorities expressed belief today that a former U. S. over-age destroyer was sunk during last week's U-boat attack on a British convoy in which two destroyers and 10 ships were sent to the bottom of the Atlantic.

An official report said one of the destroyers "apparently was one of the so-called Churchill class ships, formerly American, which were sold to England." The attack occurred in adverse weather, the report said, and the submarines maintained constant vigilance against the destroyers.

SEA SCOUT DROWNS IN FALL OFF BOAT IN RIVER

Hyle South, Yardley, Believed To Have Suffered Dizzy Spell

WAS A GOOD SWIMMER

A Sea Scout from Yardley was drowned in the Delaware River yesterday when he toppled over the rail of a cruiser at Florence Heights, N. J.

The victim was Hyle South, 20, first mate of the Morrisville troop's cruiser Marlin. En route home from a week-end cruise, he and two companions, William May, 17, and George Hoffman, 18, both of Morrisville, were rigging a sail after their motor failed.

Young South, his companions said, apparently suffered a dizzy spell, fell into the water and disappeared.

After diving repeatedly, in an effort to recover his body, his two friends marked the spot with a buoy and went ashore at Florence. Police Chief August Glass summoned the Endeavor Emergency Squad of Burlington, the Hope Fire Company and the Florence Fire Company, of Florence, and the Florence Beach Patrol.

OUR FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Democracy in the world today is the object of vicious attacks. There is a great deal of discussion of the role America must play in saving it. There is talk of spreading the "four freedoms" over the face of the globe. But one very real threat to democracy is much closer than Europe or Asia or South America. It is here.

What is this danger? Some new subversive attack on our liberties? No. It is nothing that is being done by the enemies of democracy. It is the fact that so little is done by the friends and supporters of our form of government—the citizens themselves.

Our form of government means more than aid to England, more than a huge defense program. It is a system of government—the best ever developed and the one that made America. Reduced to its simplest terms, it is the individual citizen. It is each man or woman who votes. It can be you, and your wife, and your employer, and the man across the street.

Maybe it is. It should be, but that doesn't mean that it is. The fundamental right of the citizen is to cast his ballot whenever an election is held. That is his right, his privilege, and even more, it is his duty.

Why bother to say that? Everybody usually votes when it really matters, when something important is at stake. And the rest of the time—why bother, you ask.

Why bother? What does a local election amount to, anyway? That is just the point. A local election is democracy.

Our form of government is what all the shooting is about. It's what the defense program is to defend. So it doesn't make much sense to expend every effort to save it, even to spread it—but to ignore it here where you have it.

How about starting at the beginning with this problem. Let's use our form of government where we have it—right here at home. A citizen should be a voter. Are you?

SOROSIS MEMBERS HEAR THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Claims All Should Offer All Possible for Good of Less Fortunate

MEET IN LANGHORNE

LANGHORNE, Oct. 20—The meeting of the Langhorne Sorosis held in the library Thursday afternoon was addressed by Bucks County District Attorney, Edward G. Biester, of Doylestown.

In this time of strife and difficulty, declared Mr. Biester, the people should not try to see how much they can gain for themselves, but should try to see how much they can offer for the good of the less fortunate.

Speaking before no less than 150 members and guests, Mr. Biester took as the subject of his informal address, "Patriotism." Introduced by Mrs. Edward J. Pierson, chairman of the legislative committee, which had charge of the program, Mr. Biester briefly outlined the early history of this country and told of the great opportunities to be found here. He also told of the history of the flag of the United States.

The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. Frank F. Whittam, and at that time members were informed that a meeting of the book section will be held in the library on November 20th. A card and game party will be held in the library the latter part of next week.

Mrs. Myrle Knapp and Mrs. J. Leon Baker were appointed to represent Sorosis at the Fall meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs which will be held in Churchville on Friday, October 31st.

The program opened with two piano solos by Marjorie Haimbach, who played Haydn's "Fourth Sonata" and "Shadow Dance." Miss Haimbach, a sophomore in Langhorne-Middletown high school, last evening competed in a national music contest in Philadelphia, and was awarded a medal for her outstanding work.

Ruth James, a member of "Uncle Wip's" hall of fame, gave two dance numbers and sang with Mrs. Peter Devine as her accompanist. This was followed by the group singing of "America" with Mrs. Ernest Gamble

Hulmeville Woman Sent To Jail in Lieu of Fine

LANSDALE, Oct. 20—A woman resident of Hulmeville, Bucks County, who pleaded guilty to a motor violation at a hearing here at the end of the week, is now serving a jail sentence.

The one arrested is Harriet Checchia, who admitted operating a car with a learner's permit, and unaccompanied by a licensed driver. She was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and costs. Stating she was unable to pay the fine, she was committed to the county prison for five days, being taken there by officer William Strasser, who was the witness appearing against here.

The woman's car figured in a collision with a car operated by Mervin Nester, West Sixth street, Lansdale, on October 7th, at Third street and Franconia avenues.

Inspection Officials Pleased With Police Test

"You had an A-1 show here as far as I am concerned," was the comment of Col. Churchill Williams, head of the Bucks County Emergency Police, upon the return of the inspection officers to the Municipal Building, after the "all-clear" signal had been sounded.

"It was entirely satisfactory and your system of check-off on the men reporting is a fine one. Your organization here is entirely satisfactory and with the improvement in the signals things will be in fine shape here," said the Colonel.

"You have an entirely different problem here from the other sections of Bucks County, with your large defense industries."

Earl Blair, chief air raid warden of Bucks county, was perfectly satisfied with the test or drill of the Emergency Police. "As far as I am concerned your test here tonight was perfect, with the exception of not being able to hear the signals in all parts of the borough."

NEED OF JUSTICE IN A DEMOCRACY TOLD OF

Pearl Buck, Famed Novelist, Pleads for Equality of Races of World

A SOROPTIMIST SPEAKER

(By Staff Representative)

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 20 — Pearl S. Buck, famous novelist and winner of the Nobel award in literature, was the guest of honor and speaker at the luncheon meeting at Doylestown Inn, Saturday, which marked one of the sessions of the Fall conference, North Atlantic Region of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs.

A ringing challenge for equality of the races of the world was hurled by the famed writer, herself a resident of Bucks County, as she faced the 200 women gathered from points as far north as Hartford, Conn., south to Delaware, and who came likewise from Western Pennsylvania. The five States of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania were officially represented in the conference.

Expressing a desire for an exchange of thought and feeling, the speaker made a stirring plea for acceptance of peoples of all races on an equal footing, advancing her firm belief that people of every race have fine talents and thoughts, and much for the good of the entire world to present as their contribution to human society — and that better understanding of each race on the part of the other, and full acceptance of merits and talents, is the only answer to the world situation as it is today.

"There is not one of us but is thinking along serious lines," she said as she faced the company of Soroptimists. We have come here today, each with her own thoughts on the present crisis, and each with a desire to understand the world situation. The thought in the mind of each is 'What can I do in this situation?'"

The speaker, who was introduced by Mrs. Martha Woolley, of Lahaska, a member of the Bucks County Soroptimists Club, the hostess organization, reminded that as thoughts of so many are tied up with ideas of relief, so has much of her own life been connected with thoughts of immediate relief action, due to imperative needs of the moment as she found years of her life patterned in China, a country of great individual need.

EMERGENCY POLICE DRILL HERE DEVELOPS INABILITY TO HEAR SIGNALS OVER ENTIRE AREA

Siren and Whistle Were Not Heard at Farragut Avenue and Bloomsdale Road—400 Men Respond To Call and Carry Out Their Part of The Program in Every Detail.

Bristol's imaginary blackout, last night, was a complete success, according to those who have made themselves familiar with blackouts, except for the signals. The signals were not heard in various sections of the borough. The inspection officers in their tour of inspection at 9.25 did not hear the signals and communicated at once with the Municipal Building. When informed over the police radio that the signals were then being sounded it was perfectly evident that additional ones will have to be arranged for.

Nature came very near giving Bristol a "blackout" when fog began to settle down on certain sections of the borough just as the imaginary blackout was about to be staged. In some sections fog did cover the areas.

Crowds of people milled along the streets and congregated at street intersections to see the Emergency Police in action. There was much interest manifested by the public and groups stood along the streets throughout the entire town.

The blackout here was different from the blackouts which have been staged in other communities in Bucks County and elsewhere throughout the Nation during the week that theoretical air raids were staged over municipalities, so as to test the effectiveness of plans to protect those areas from devastation and havoc from the air and to clear the highways for emergency travel.

The lights were not extinguished here but all other details of a blackout were carried out in accordance with carefully considered and minutely planned details.

At nine o'clock 400 Emergency Police manned their assigned posts in accordance with instructions previously received. The police stood guard at every street intersection, every fire alarm box, the two borough water storage tanks, the water pumping station, sewage pumping station, Penna. Railroad freight and passenger stations, construction depot of the Phila. Electric Co., post office, all public and parochial school buildings, all industries except those having guards of their own, lumber yards, telephone exchange, Municipal Building, all creek bridges and all railroad bridges, and other strategic points considered objects of attack in an air raid and places considered vital to the operation of a well established community.

There was a squad of Emergency Police held in reserve at the Municipal Building and members of the Bristol Consolidated Fire Department were at their stations, prepared to instantly answer calls.

The ambulance of the Bucks County Rescue Squad of Croydon manned with a crew of nurses and first aid workers was in the Municipal Fire Station.

Col. Churchill Williams, head of the Bucks County Emergency Police; Earl Blair, chief air raid warden of Bucks County; Anthony Russo, area chief; Linford J. Jones, chief of Bristol Police Department; and Robert B. Downing, area chief of Bensalem Township; made a quick tour of the town and visited as many posts as possible in the 45 minute period.

The Emergency Police, all volunteer men, were promptly at their posts and regardless of the personal sacrifice and inconvenience, did their duty willingly. They were alert and more than once the police radio car and an accompanying car were stopped until identified.

District chiefs supervised the groups of Emergency Police and kept an eye on every post in his particular district, being charged with the responsibility of having every designated post in his district manned by an emergency police.

Each Emergency Police wore a grey overseas cap with a numbered button, that number being his identification.

Eight patrolmen of the Penna. Motor Police from the South Langhorne Barracks, under Sergeant Kelly, and Constable James Reilly were stationed on highways leading into the borough and promptly at 9.20 halted all such traffic. The vehicles were parked partly off the highways so as to afford a traffic lane for emergency use. At the same hour Bristol Emergency Police stopped all crosstown traffic within Bristol Borough.

After the lapse of five minutes during which it was reasoned that all traffic going through Bristol would have had sufficient time in which to pass through, the siren on the Municipal Building sounded a long blast and all traffic in Bristol instantly came to a dead stop. In addition to the Muncipal siren the whistles at the Grundy mills and Manhattan Soap Co., aided in carrying the signal to other sections of Bristol.

At 9.45 the "all-clear" signal was given.

Due to inability to hear the "all-clear" signals a number of emergency police remained at their duties after the signal had been given.

The test or drill was held for the purpose of developing any flaws which might exist in the plans and in this

The one injured is William R. Foster, aged six years, of Main street, Croydon, and the driver of the car was J. J. Banks, State Road and Birch avenue, Cornwells Heights.

HITLER'S NEXT GOAL

Hitler's gigantic and costly drive on Moscow has progressed to the point that support is given to Premier Churchill's surmise that the Fuehrer will soon be halted in Russia by bad weather and will occupy the winter by turning to challenge Britain anew, probably at Gibraltar, in the Mediterranean and at Suez. This is true whether Hitler takes Moscow or is stopped before he captures that prize.

Weather will be less of an obstacle in a drive on the Caucasus in the south. But he has a long way to go to Tiflis and Baku even in mild weather, and a campaign on the Caspian Sea and the Caucasus can be beset with such difficulties and delays as to strip away the last vestige of the blitzkrieg with which Hitler broke into Russia.

From the first Hitler has been dependent upon drama to forward his fortunes. It is not in the cards for him to have its help in the long, tedious drag to the Caucasus. The best opportunity that would seem to present itself in that line is to begin battering at Britain's hold on the Mediterranean.

Lacking naval strength himself and counting the Italian fleet as inept, Hitler can be expected to put everything he has in the air to pound both ends of the Mediterranean and the waters in between. The prospect is that the RAF, now reinforced with an uninterrupted flow of new powerful American planes, will prove effective against the decreasing Nazi air fleets.

Unless all signs fail, the climax of the winter campaign will come in the sky through a gigantic grapple of armored planes exceeding in intensity all previous aerial warfare.

TIRED OF IT

"Unless there is an end to the practice of publishing a whole page of pictures of dogs on the main news page when Hitler meets Mussolini or Horthy, or when the German army has made sensational advances on the Eastern Front, severe action will be taken. We are just tired of this sort of thing."

That is fair warning, and the Nazi warning to the press of occupied Holland contains a wistful note. After all, too much is too much. Pictures of dogs are all right in their place. But a whole front page of dog pictures hardly would seem justified even by a meeting of Hitler and Mussolini.

It is not surprising to learn that the Nazis are "tired of this sort of thing." Dog lovers, rather than the Nazis, are the people with a real right to protest.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Jan. 8, 1880. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

As handsome a piece of work in its way as is often seen, is the artistic frescoing and other decorative work done by James Lyndall in the lodge room of Odd Fellows Hall. The room has been completely renovated and in addition to its comfortableness is one of the prettiest lodge rooms in the county. . . .

"Langhorne and Hulmeville" is now announced by the conductors of the trains stopping at the station, which greatly pleases our Hulmeville friends.

Miss F. R. Roberts, who is a graduate of the National School of Elocution and Oratory of Philadelphia, has been engaged by Miss Merriam to give lessons in elocution to her pupils.

The freight receipts of the P. R. R. in this borough will average nearly $100 per day. When the shipments and receipts by steamboats and canal are taken into consideration, the volume of business here will be seen to be of considerable magnitude.

The Bristol Improvement Company declared today its usual quarterly dividend of one and three-quarters per cent. Ever since its formation this company has declared seven per cent. dividends, payable quarterly. . . .

Arthur Collins and Frank P. Adams went on a pilgrimage to Menlo Park, last week, to bow at the shrine of Edison's electric light. They are strongly convinced of Edison's success.

The Bristol Amateur Orchestra, Prof. Busch, director, will on the 20th instant, give a concert. . . .

A meeting of the male members of the Methodist Church will be held on Friday evening of next week to decide whether the women of the church shall be allowed to vote for trustees and have a voice in the management of the affairs of the church. It is altogether probable that the women will be granted the privilege the proposed amendment will give them. Dr. Cunningham, in alluding to the matter last Sunday, said that the church should have done this long ago. It is now and has always been difficult to get a full attendance of the male members at the business meetings, but if the women are given the right of voting, it is thought that a more general expression of the wishes of the church may be obtained upon matters relating to its interests.

A committee consisting of the Messrs. Barwis and several ladies, waited on Mr. Taylor on the 29th ult. and Mr. Ebenezer Barwis, with a very fitting speech, presented the cane. . . .

"But we realize that relief in the long run is not important," she continued. "It is an emergency measure. It has to be done. But it is something that should be done with the left hand while we keep busy with the right hand. . . . In the world's present problem, therefore, relief is no soution. It is an emergency."

Using as her "thesis word" she gave this "There is no home problem which is not a world problem, and there is also no world problem that is not a home problem." Enlarging upon this she gave the same thought in regard to the national and international questions. "I see problems in the communities hereabouts, which are practically the same as in other parts of the world, where I have lived."

Considering the situation of the United States of America, she added: "We are about to enter into a war—I fear. . . . I don't know what your definition of Democracy is. I change mine from day to day. But it is an instinct toward freedom." The differences between democracy and tyranny were then given some thought. "In a tyranny it doesn't matter much what the people feel or think, because the people don't make the laws," she stated. "If the people don't want a thing, it simply doesn't happen. That is a democracy, and I believe in it. In our country the laws do not come down from above. Law becomes actually the law of the people when sufficient people believe in it to uphold it. In this present situation we cannot therefore trust merely to laws or to the constitution. The better way of being truly democratic is in the thought and feeling of the people. I am much impressed with this idea, and see the need for it. . . . There are certain things that are necessary to preserve our democratic way of life. This is an age-old struggle between those who want to be free and those who do not want freedom."

The speaker traced the manner in which this particular wave began in the 16th century in the Far East, coming on down to the World War, and on to the Japanese aggression against China. "And I feel we have not yet met the crisis. The crisis lies ahead. I foresee another phase in this war of democracy versus tyranny. I feel it will be a division among the races. This appears to be a dangerous subject in this country, but it appears to me as the next division."

The author then told of the possibility of the banding together of the colored races against the white race, meaning possibly a war far more terrible than we can imagine. The history of the United States, you know, has not been so good at times. We recall the breaking of our own treaty with Korea just after the turn of the century. And we know of our present aid to Japan while giving relief to China.

"We ask, 'What has this to do with us?' Well, there is no community but has something to do with this race problem. And our own problem here is with the colored race. There is not one of us but who should declare for equal her "greatest experience since being in America" that of coming to know the negro better, "this people within a people, this nation within a nation." "We Americans are missing a great deal by not accepting them in our lives" she added, as she considered laws attempting to make for equality of the races, reminding all the while that "We don't get laws to work in this country unless we have the democratic feeling in the individual heart. In a country like ours the men and women who believe in a democracy have got to treat peoples of all colors the same, regardless of the cost. Love is not enough. Many of the white race love the colored people, but wouldn't give them equal opportunity. Love is surely not enough. We have to have justice in a democracy. This cannot be brought about by laws. It can only be done as we feel and think in our individual communities."

Continuing, she recalled how just a few years ago a group of colored people planned to march on Washington. "You can realize what that means, because our capital is one of the most undemocratic spots in the world."

Another remark was "Every single thing we do to divide the races is dangerous." She mentioned the fear the Japanese in each community in this country have, because of race feeling. "I know what it is to have other races against me. I was white, and people of other colors sought to do me harm. What I had ever done for good was worth nothing. What I had contributed was worth nothing. I was at their mercy because my skin was different. . . . The main thing for us is to recognize the feeling in one's self and in one's community. It is the most dangerous thing ahead for the human race. Our greatest contribution to democracy in the world today is this question of the race. . . . I am the last person in the world to be sentimental about this question. I do not believe we should give people jobs just because they are of another color. But I do feel that the whole question should be based on ability and talent, regardless of race. I feel that every person in this country, regardless of color, should have the privilege to ask for all the rights as an American citizen."

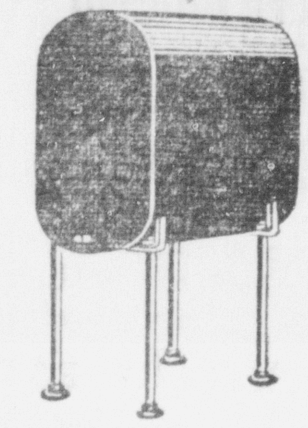

"No local problem today is local. It is a world problem," she admonished, as she opened the session for discussion of this subject.

The luncheon meeting was one of four programs of the day. During this affair, greetings were brought by William O. Hunsicker, a Bucks County commissioner; Miss Helaine Lintleman, president of Bucks County Soroptimists; and Miss Sophia Bliven, director of the North Atlantic Region of Soroptimists. The North Atlantic Regional Board session of the morning was followed by a president's council. In the late afternoon, at the general session, Mrs. Curtis Bok, Philadelphia, spoke upon the subject "Parliament of the Common People." An informal buffet supper was arranged at the Doylestown Country Club at 6.30 o'clock.

Miss Helen R. Abbott Is Bride of Sanford H. Justis

A wedding of interest was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at the hour of four, when Miss Helen R. Abbott, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph deB. Abbott, 935 Radcliffe street, became the bride of Mr. Sanford H. Justis, of Bristol Road, Bensalem Township.

The nuptials occurred at the Abbott residence, with the Rev. George E. Boswell, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, officiating.

A recital of harp selections was given by Dorothy Baseler Johnson, Philadelphia, who also played the wedding march by Lohengrin as the bride was escorted to the improvised altar by her father.

Attending the former Miss Abbott as matrons of honor were Mrs. William T. Taylor, Radcliffe street, and Mrs. Helen L. Stevens, of Johnstown. Mr. Lyle Justis, Bensalem Township, was groomsman for his brother.

A floor-length gown of white lace was worn by the bride; her tulle veil being held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She wore slippers of white satin, and carried an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Stevens wore gowns of silk jersey, in tones of champagne and dusty rose, respectively. With these were worn gold-toned belts, and gold slippers. Each attendant carried an arm bouquet of chrysanthemums in colors contrasting with the shades of their gowns, and matching these were small clusters of button chrysanthemums worn in their hair.

Sixty guests were served at a reception at the Abbott residence, following the ceremony.

Leaving for a several days' motor trip, Mrs. Justis wore a brown dress with trim of gold, and brown suede hat and slippers. Mr. Justis and his bride will reside at 935 Radcliffe street.

For the ceremony, Mrs. Abbott, mother of the bride, selected a gown of silk lace in coffee tone, with trim of dusty rose. Her corsage was composed of pink rose-buds.

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

O Heavenly Father, in Whose strength we live, and in Whose love we are blessed, grant that the woes of this world might be alleviated; that we might come to realize that peace will come through love rather than hate; that victory will be obtained through faith, rather than strength. Cause the International leaders to call upon Thee for strength and guidance, that Thy will might be done and Thy Kingdom advanced in our day. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A group of five maids attended Miss Mabel M. Mazzanti, 320 Lincoln avenue, yesterday morning, when at an 11 o'clock ceremony in St. Ann's Church, she was wed to Mr. Carl Saracino, son of Mrs. Theresa Saracino, Trenton, N. J. The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Guido Mazzanti.

With the bride entering the church with her father, the ceremony was officiated over by the Rev. Father Peter Pinci. Mr. Percy G. Ford was vocalist for the occasion.

The bridesmaids were inclusive of the Misses Emma Mazzanti, Lincoln avenue; and Molly Inverso, Trenton, N. J. The bridesmaids were the Misses Lillian Cagnetti and Emma deCesare, Lincoln avenue; and Dora Corredetti, Trenton avenue.

Mr. Saracino had as his groomsman Mr. Louis Mazzanti, Lincoln avenue, a brother of the bride; and the ushers were Mr. Joseph Liccardo and Mr. Anthony Dovi, Trenton, N. J.

The bride wore white, the handsome gown being fashioned of lace and satin. Lace formed the yoke, and wide pieces of lace formed the waistline, and was used for vertical inserts on the long, full skirt which swept to a graceful train. Lace was also used as shoulder caps and edged the train. The long sleeves ended in points over the hands. Her crown, formed of orange blossoms, held a net veil, lace-trimmed. She wore satin slippers, and carried a white prayer book with shower of white sweet peas. For the recessional this was replaced by an arm bouquet of lilies.

The gowns of the five maids was patterned of taffeta in different color tones. The gowns had sweetheart necklines, short puffed sleeves, and full, floor-length skirts, trimmed with wide ruffles of lace. A lace ruffle also circled the top of the bodice and sleeves. Each maid wore a velvet bonnet to match her gown, the bonnets being trimmed with velvet bows at the back. Miss Emma Mazzanti and Miss Inverso wore blue; Miss Cagnetti chose gold; Miss deCesare, orchid; and Miss Corredetti, pink. All wore gold-toned slippers; and carried colonial bouquets of mixed flowers.

Gathering at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony, members of the bridal party were served a wedding breakfast. A dinner was enjoyed at four p. m., at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Nazzareno deCesare, 318 Lincoln avenue; and in the evening a reception was held in Mutual Aid Hall.

Mr. Saracino and bride left last evening for a week's motor trip to the South. For the journey the former Miss Mazzanti wore a two-piece suit of black velvet, red fox chubby, black velvet hat, and black accessories. Her corsage was of mixed flowers. The couple will reside at 23 W. Ingham avenue, Trenton, N. J.

BENSALEM OWLS SCORE FIRST VICTORY OF CURRENT CAMPAIGN, DEFEATING BOOTHWYN 25 TO 7

(By Jack Gill)

Coach Woody Wetherhold's Bensalem Owls flew to their first gridiron victory of the current campaign at Caraw Ils Heights, Saturday afternoon, as the Blue and Gray defeated Boothwyn by a 25 to 7 score. Captain Dick Mossbrook, Ashton and Hugh Deans tabbed the Bensalem touchdowns.

The new Bensalem mentor started his second squad against the invading eleven. Early in the first period Holland intercepted a pass on the 43-yard line and sped all the way unmolested for a thrilling score. Grunwell hit the line and Boothwyn took a 7 to 0 lead.

It was short lived, however, as Bensalem's varsity entered the fray and went to work with the best offensive attitude they have shown thus far this year. Dick Mossbrook went around left end in the same quarter and the Boothwyn lead was reduced to 7-6. It was a 36-yard touchdown journey.

Bensalem went ahead in the second quarter when Gene Ashton climaxed a sustained drive from the 50-yard line by traveling three yards around end. Hugh Deans shot a forward pass to George Patterson for the extra point and the Owls went into a 13-7 lead. Before the half concluded, Deans added another six-pointer by skirting the left side of Boothwyn's line from the 10-yard marker for another tally. At the half Bensalem led by a 20 to 7 score.

Mossbrook scored his second touchdown of the day late in the third session, when he again skirted around his own left end for a 15-yard score.

Lamb and Heacock played outstanding ball on the line for the winners, while Mossbrook, Ashton, Deans and Ejdys turned in their best games of the year in the backfield. Lamb set up Bensalem's second scoring play when he intercepted a pass thrown by Holland and sped 30 yards before being stopped. For the losers, Holland and Snyder performed notably.

PALMYRA, Oct. 20—Two touchdowns in the last three minutes of play, the last one coming in the final play of the game, gave the Palmyra Red Devils a 12-6 victory over St. Ann's A. A. eleven yesterday afternoon on the high school field.

For 57 minutes of the game the St. Ann's team proved a stubborn defensive club to the Jerseyites. At no time could the Red Devils put the ball in a scoring position though they were in possession of the pigskin most of the afternoon.

BUNNIES CONTINUE TO KEEP ROLLING IN THE VICTORIES

Bristol High Defeats Penna. School For The Deaf

FINAL SCORE IS 20 TO 6

Armand Capriotti Again Sparks the Local Eleven To Victory

By Jack Gill

Bristol High School's football forces continued to roll toward success Saturday afternoon at Mt. Airy, as the Cardinal and Grey combine rocked the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf eleven by a 20 to 6 count. Sparked once again by brilliant Armand Capriotti, Bristol came to life in the second half of the game after displaying a lackadaisical brand of ball during the first two chukkers.

The locals tallied early and went into an immediate 7 to 0 lead in the first quarter. From then on until the finish of the first half they lolled about taking things much too easy for the general comfort of head Coach Clarence Bartholomew. Then, when Tom Christini went off tackle in the second quarter to make the score 7-6 at the half, Bristol knew it was in for an active afternoon.

Steaming out for the third quarter, the Bunnies were a different club. Taking the kickoff at mid-field, they exchanged punts and went for a touchdown. Once started, they never let up. Late in the fourth period Hopkins took a thirty yard pass from Capriotti to up the count to 20-6. Maybe Tommy Campion, who coached the Cards last year and who watched the scrap in an officers' naval uniform, spurred the winners to this last marker. But the fact remains that they overcame a severe case of overconfidence during the halftime intermission and went on to win their third successive contest.

Bristol is knee deep in good reserve backs this season. Miller, who played left halfback in the absence of Captain Chick Di Angelo, who was hurt in scrimmage last week, performed commendably. So likewise did the ever efficient Capriotti, who handled the ball on nearly every play. Galzerano, Rosser, Melidio and Scancella all caught the eye. The entire line, with the exception of the first half, left little to be desired. The only difficulty the Cards encountered in the game was the end sweeping of Christini, who worked his way outside for many a long gain.

Bristol tabbed a touchdown early. Dutch Vandegrift blocked Camassa's punt on the twenty-five yard line and with Capriotti doing most of the work, the homesters went as far as the one yard stripe. Here the Mutes field and Camassa punted to the thirty. Unable to work it across from up close, it took Bristol but one play from the thirty as Capriotti let loose an aerial to Massi for the left end's first score of the season. Rosser split the crossbars on a placement and Bristol shot into an early 7-0 lead.

Nick Melidio entered the fray in the second quarter and gave a good account of himself as a passer and punter. Cialella and Reed broke through to block another Camassa kick, but the Bunnies couldn't do anything about the break. Then P. S. D. began to throw passes galore. Ray Menow climaxed a steady string by throwing one to Bill Dilling from the 45 yard line to the 5. Christini went off tackle on the first play to make the score 7-6. The same Christini tried to plunge the extra point over, but fumbled a bad pass from center.

Bristol woke up in the third quarter. Breaking out of the huddle with a cry that could be heard from one end of Germantown avenue to the other, they sent Capriotti powering through center from the 45 to the 30. Only Brugzis stood between the hard running Bunny back and the goal line. But a moment later Dilling intercepted "Caps" pass and the jig was up for the time being. Camassa punted to midfield.

It was a mere matter of recording the plays from that point. Galzerano led a sustained march to pay dirt. His fine run after faking a reverse play found him traveling from the 20 yard line to the 1 yard stripe. Capriotti concluded a seven play touchdown waltz by easing over from this point. He then shot a placement through the uprights to stick Bristol into a 14 to 6 advantage.

Bristol was on fire all throughout the second half. Massi and Herman took advantage once more of Camassa's slow kicking and poor punt protection to block the locals' third kick in the fourth quarter on the 25. Hopkins fell on the ball for our side. Scancella, as hard a running back as Bristol has had in the past few years, and Capriotti, then led another scoring march that was interrupted by a fifteen yard penalty for holding. But the loss of this yardage meant little. It moved the ball back from the 15 to the 30, from where Capriotti threw a pass that Hopkins clutched five yards from the goal line. He lunged past a tackler for Bristol's final score.
